

Why?

Written by Administrator

Tuesday, 26 April 2011 21:32 - Last Updated Friday, 10 March 2017 22:51

When not gainfully employed in an office somewhere in Melbourne I can be found abseiling in Yosemite, cutting ice steps into North Face or free diving alongside blue whales to new depths of the Pacific Trench thankfully I have yet to be out of gainful employment.

This web site was born out of a desire to exercise the aging grey matter, publish some of my family history and have some fun along the journey.

It is definitely a work in progress and I invite you to visit again to view additions and alterations as the website continues to evolve and grow.

I look forward to hearing from other family researchers who may have a link into my family and want to share further information, whether it be a family recipe, contributing a family related article or having photographs to add.

If you want to start exploring your family click the Genealogy tab above or click here .

If you want to start exploring some old (and not so old) family recipes click the Recipes tab above or click here .